

2016

Year ended 31 March 2016

The foundations of a new direction

The year ended March 2016 belongs to Circuit's history as Partners Relief & Development NZ. Its service report records support for relief, education, health and community development, before the independent Circuit identity began in April 2016.

The output table does not clearly identify the unit of each numerical entry. Those entries are not presented here as counts of people or as financial totals. The supplied extract contains no complete financial statements.

Relief and community support

The report lists emergency response, food support, medical projects, education and development among the work funded through the Partners alliance in Thailand and Myanmar.

A change in emphasis

The report explains the decision to become an independent charity, with a stronger focus on sustainable solutions devised and operated by local communities.

The beginning of Circuit

The name and organisational change took effect after this reporting year. New Circuit programmes were to be introduced in the following year's report.

Reading the record
